May 28, 2014

AAU Participates in 9th IEEE UAE Student Day

Al Ain University of Science and Technology participated in the Ninth conference for the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) which took place in Ajman University of Science and Technology. The IEEE UAE Section organized the event with active support from IEEE Student Branch Counselors from all participating institutions including Engineering, Information Technology and Computer Science students.

AAU was present at the conference through two groups of the college of Engineering and Information Technology students supervised by Dr. Nazih Mallat, Deputy Dean of the College of Engineering and Information Technology, member of the steering committee for the 9th IEEE Student Day in the UAE. The AAU students participated under the category "Senior Design Project" to compete with other projects for the 15 prizes in the five categories of projects:

Common Design Project, Engineering Design Project, Senior Design Project, Software Engineering Project, and Community Service Project.

On his part, Dr. Mallat reiterated that this event was an excellent opportunity for AAU students to exchange knowledge and experience with students from other institutions. This will definitely enhance the culture of competition among our students in the college of engineering and information technology who, through the discussions with IEEE members in the UAE, have also learned about IEEE and its main role in advancing technology for humanity.

Press Release Link