Nov 14, 2023

A competition for the Best Research Project in the field of Psychology

The College of Education and Humanities and Social Sciences at Al Ain University (Al Ain Campus) organized a competition for the best student research project within the framework of the Applied Psychology program's research course, supervised by Dr. Eid Abu Hamza.

19th students participated in the competition, showcasing advanced research skills and notable creativity in presenting their projects. Five projects were selected to receive valuable prizes. The winning projects were as follows:

Student Maitha Mohammed Al Zaheri for the project titled: "Effects of Sleep Disorders on Students."

Student Shatha Mohammed Subhi Khairy for the project titled: " Quality of Life in Families with an ADHD-diagnosed Child"

Student Bakhita Al Ketbi for the project titled: "Impact of Climate Change on Mental Health."

Student Sara Bint Amro for the project titled: "Children's Drawings and Clinical Implications"

Student Afraa Saeed Al Zaheri for the project titled: " Bullying Among College-Level Students."

The five winners were honored in the presence of Prof. Ghaleb Al Refae, the AAU president, reflecting the university's commitment to promoting scientific research and encouraging innovation in the field of psychology."

Press Release Link